Mosquito Repellent Industry

Introduction

A mosquito coil essentially is an incense like the ones that are used in aromatherapy as well as in different religious rituals only this one is used for repelling mosquitoes.

Mosquito coils are burned indoors and outdoors in regions like Asia, Africa, and South America. Mosquito coils consist of an insecticide/repellant, organic fillers capable of burning with smoldering, binder, and additives such as synergists, dyes, and fungicide.

Mosquitoes need to be exterminated using with right tools and little bit of effort. Mosquito coil is mosquito-repelling incense, usually shaped into a spiral, and typically made from a dried paste of pyrethrum powder. The coil is usually held at the center of the spiral, suspending it in the air, or wedged by two pieces of fireproof nettings to allow continuous smoldering. Burning usually begins at the outer end of the spiral and progresses slowly toward the centre of the spiral, producing a mosquito-repellent smoke.

Insecticides are used either for killing or controlling of harmful insects. The insecticides which are applied for repelling insects are termed as “Repellent”.

Mosquito is one of the most harmful insects for mankind. To destroy them many preparations are available in the market in various recipes like pest killer spray, soap, oil, powder, repellent etc. Out of these, mosquito repellent is the most popular as it has germicidal and disinfectant properties and is able to repel mosquitoes and is convenient to use.

Mosquito coil is used for repelling and killing of household insects like mosquitoes, flies and garden insects. Because of the pyrethrin contained in it, the mosquitoes usually die in its vicinity.

Now-a-days repellents are applied by heating impregnated mat over an electrical device, under low temperature which is known as mosquito repellent mats. Simple type of repellent mats is prepared by soaking mats of paper pulp in repellent chemical compound and proper drying.

The automatic mosquito coil-manufacturing machine has materialized mass production by getting rid of various restrictions in manufacture. Synthesized pyrethrin, on the other hand, has enabled production of the material of the coils freely while pyrethrum had a limitation in its harvest.

These may well be called the technical innovations of the mosquito coil manufacturing industry.

Methods of Mosquito Control

Mosquito-borne diseases affect millions of people worldwide each year. The bite of a mosquito can result in anything from a skin irritation to contracting malaria. Clearly, mosquitoes are not just a nuisance, but also potentially harmful therefore special products like mosquito repellent used to combat mosquitoes are required. Each of the products used for mosquito control have varying degrees of effectiveness, and it is important to know which may be better than other.

Market Outlook

The mosquito repellent market is one of the rapidly growing vibrant markets in FMCG sector India. Due to increase awareness regarding vector borne disease, the demand for mosquito repellent products like coils, strips, liquid vaporizers, etc are rising than before, thereby providing high momentum to the Indian Mosquito repellent market.

India mosquito repellent market is projected to reach $ 800 million by 2021. The market is expected to witness growth on account of rising disposable incomes coupled with growing awareness among consumers and easy availability of mosquito repellents on the back of robust distribution network. Moreover, rise in literacy rates is also expected to drive the demand for mosquito repellents over the next five years.

Mosquito repellent market can be broadly categorized into Coils, Vaporizers, Mats, Sprays, Creams and Other mosquito repellents.

Western region dominated the market with a share of 30%, in value terms, in 2015 and is anticipated to remain dominant through 2022. The region is expected to retain its market share due to high levels of literacy and awareness among consumers, coupled with presence of a robust and synchronized retail network that ensures easy availability of a wide variety of mosquito repellents. “Increasing consumer awareness, growing number of government initiatives, rise in consumer spending on health expenditure coupled with increase in rising demand for consumer friendly, non-toxic products like mosquito repelling clothes and perfumes are expected to continue boosting demand for mosquito repellents in India over the next five years.

The world mosquito repellent market is expected to register notable growth in the near future attributed to rise in incidence of mosquito-borne diseases and global warming, which facilitates breeding of mosquitoes. Other factors that drive the market are rising health awareness, government initiatives for mosquito control, and affordable cost of repellents.

The world mosquito repellent market has been segmented on the basis of product type, distribution channel, and geography. On the basis of product type, the market is categorized into spray, coil, cream & oil, mat, vaporizer and other products.

The coil segment dominates the global market in terms of revenue owing to their extensive use by the middle and lower income groups across various developing and rural regions of the world. Cream & oil is emerging as the largest segment due to their increasing availability with herbal ingredients.
