How to Set Up a Dal Mill, Split Pulses (Roasted Gram Split, Dal & Chana). Profitable Food Processing Business Idea

Split Pulses (commonly known as Dal) are made from whole pulses that have been de-skinned and oiled for ease of cooking and longer shelf life. Chana (Gram), Mung, Massor, Urad, and Arhar (Tur) are commonly processed pulses that are an important part of the staple diet in all Indian states. Both vegetarians and non-vegetarians in India depend on pulses splits, also known as 'dal.' Split pulses are one of the most important sources of protein in Indian cuisine.
