

Starting or Opening a School in India on CBSE Pattern (Establishment of New School) - Detailed Project Report, Profile, Business plan, Trends, Market research, survey, Feasibility study, Investment opportunities, Cost and Revenue

Description:

Education is today identified among basic needs, as essential for an individual's survival as 'food, clothing and shelter.' The need for education has been recognized in all parts of the country and among all sections of society. Education brings success and success translates into social recognition. Though we have developed well in higher education system, a limited infrastructure facility is there in most of the educational institutions.

Opening a school in India is a herculean task, however more and more people are entering in school business; for the demand for school appears unending in India. The promising business opportunity can be discovered in the light of absence of quality school, growing population, and increasing desire to provide quality education to one's children.

A school is an unique business as it cannot be even termed a business. Schools cannot be set up by private entities. They have to be run by a society formed under the Societies Act of 1860, or a trust under Public Trust Act as exist in different states, or by forming a company under Section 25 of the Companies Act 1956.
