Description:

Almost all of the pig can be used as food. Preparations of pig parts into specialities include: sausage, bacon, gammon, ham, skin into pork scratchings, feet into trotters, head into a meat jelly called head cheese (brawn), and consumption of the liver, chitterlings and blood (blood pudding or black pudding).

The following factors can influence the type of pig farms in any given region:

Available food supply suitable for pigs

The ability to deal with manure or other outputs from the pig operation

Local beliefs or traditions, including religion

The breed or type of pig available to the farm

Local diseases or conditions that affect pig growth or fecundity

Local requirements, including government zoning and/or land use laws

Local and global market conditions and demand

Traditional farming styles and methods

Commercial pig farming in India for meat production is one of the best and profitable business ideas for the Indian people. There are several highly meat producing pig breeds available around the globe. Some of those are very suitable for commercial meat production according to the weather and climate of India. Pig farming will provide employment opportunities to seasonally employed rural farmers and Supplementary income to improve their living standards. The pig farming constitutes the livelihood of rural poor belonging to the lowest socio-economic strata and they have no means to undertake scientific pig farming with improved foundation stock, proper housing, feeding and management.
