Banana Cultivation (Banana Plantation is a Commercial Agricultural Facility)

Description:

Banana Cultivation (Banana Plantation is a Commercial Agricultural Facility)

Banana farming is a commercial agricultural facility that grows bananas in tropical climates. Banana plantations will package, process, and ship their product directly to international markets in addition to growing the crop. A plantation's size can range from a small family farm to a corporate facility with large tracts of land, several physical plants, and several workers, depending on the scale of the operation.
