

Production of Flavours and Perfumes with Formulations

Description:

Perfumes and Flavours are a harmonious combination of natural and / or synthetic ingredients essential to lend taste and smell to food, pharmaceutical, personal care, fabric care and household care products, pleasing the senses in totality. Supposing Perfumes and flavours are eliminated from use our, life will become dull and boring, not good enough to live. Thankfully, today Perfumes and flavours are present throughout all levels of product right from an expensive one to the cheapest and play an invaluable role by its performance and signal attributes to take care of this emotional need, stimulating as well as calming or relaxing the user. The flavour and Perfumes industry in India is fragmented, with top global players and local players of various sizes competing in the same marketplace.

Some Indian FMCG companies who use Perfumes and flavours in their products also make their own fragrance blends, by purchasing individual aroma chemicals and mixing them. The Flavour market is highly fragmented. Flavour purchasers may range from multinational companies to big Indian industrial houses to small-scale industrial units to local eateries to even individual homes. This is especially true in case of savoury, bakery and confectionary segments where manufacturing process is simple in comparison to other segments, which use more complex manufacturing technology. Indian FMCG is characterized by intense competition both by multinational companies, organized and unorganized Indian manufacturing setups.

Increasing usage of perfumes among the young population, increasing online retail penetration, product push strategy by key global players, availability of perfumes in different price ranges, and increasing consumer spending on personal and beauty care products are major factors expected to drive the growth of the global perfumes market over the forecast period.
