Description:

Bihar is a state in eastern India. It is the 12th largest state in terms of geographical size at 38,202 sq/miles (98,940 km<sup>2</sup>) and 3rd largest by population. Almost 58% of Biharis are below the age of 25, which is the highest proportion in India.

Bihar is divided into 9 divisions and 37 districts, and has Patna as its capital. It has a very rich history, and is also an attraction for travelers and tourists.

Bihar is fact becoming the most desired place for making investments. It is the single most important source of minerals like coal, iron ore and bauxite in India. Due to fertile soil base, large variety of agricultural commodities are produced, such as paddy, wheat, lentils, sugarcane, jute, etc. However, large and small business houses exists in the area of mining and extraction, textiles, sugar mills, rice mills, oil refineries, cement, steel, fertilizers, automobiles and engineering products. There is also availability of skilled and educated workforce. Besides, a vast potential exists in the tourism sector.

It is well known that agriculture is the state's strength and the government is also encouraging the sector. The present government has constituted a separate "Agriculture Cabinet", the first of its kind in India. This cabinet is responsible for planning, investment and execution in the agriculture sector to boost up the production of grains and value added products. The main crops and produce (Grains, Fruits & Vegetables all together) of the state are as follows-
