Sterile products are dosage forms of therapeutic agents that are free of viable microorganisms. Principally these include parenterals, ophthalmic and irrigating preparations. Of these, parenteral preparations are unique among dosage forms because they are injected through skin or mucous membranes into internal body compartments. The parenteral range of drug administration is important in treating medical emergencies in which a subject is comatose or cannot swallow and in providing various types of maintenance therapy for hospitalized patients. The most frequently used vehicle for sterile products is water since it is the vehicle for all body products. Most of the demand is fulfilled by own production. There is good scope for the new entrepreneurs in this field with production of saline injection and dextrose injection.
