Instant tea is manufactured in several countries but production and consumption in the United States is greater than in the rest of the world. The basic process for manufacture of instant tea as a soluble powder from dry tea leaf includes extraction, concentration and drying. It is an important fact to note here that the annual per capita consumption of tea in India is 0.5 kg. It is most widely used or consumed all over the world. It is drunk by all classes of persons, whether labour or executives, housewife or working women, children or old persons. We can see tea stalls at every place. At present time, we cannot simply search out a person, who does not take tea. India is the leading producer of tea in the world. It claims 25 to 30% of the total production of tea in the world and almost 20 to 25% of the world exports. At present India claims 12% share in world exports in terms of value. Any entrepreneur who may go into this field, will be successful.
