There are thousands of frozen foods available. Before freezing, it is necessary to blend the product to destroy enzymes, which would result on off flavours and consequent quality deterioration. As frozen food preserves the vegetables, they don't get spoiled even after months once they are kept in cold storage, some 250000 retail stores have frozen food departments and 75% of the industry output is sold through super markets. Today, frozen foods are available in retail and institutional outlets over all the areas of the country. The total annual commercial production is estimated to be more than 10 billion pounds. Obviously, what is produced must be marketed.
